

Give A Boy a Home Today

Our home in Kenya (“Canada House”) can accommodate up to 44 boys. So, why do we only have 26 boys living there? It’s because we need additional financing to support additional boys. There are 200,000 homeless and abandoned boys living on the streets of Nairobi.

How can you help? As we get additional sponsors, we can bring in additional boys. Are you prepared to become a hero and sponsor today?

Join Other Canadians

Our Canadian supporters continue to go the extra mile. We learned early in April that, because of frequent power outages, the TV at the home in Kenya could no longer be repaired. One of our Canadian supporters donated a new TV for the home. The picture shows the boys with the new TV.

Gifts for the Boys

Through wonderful cooperation, one supporter sent solar lighting and gifts to the boys, sending them to Kenya with the daughter of another supporter. The picture shows the gifts.

What Can You Do?

Do you read the Journal and ask yourself, “what could I be doing to help?” We hope so. because your assistance is crucial at this moment. A gift of something as simple as skipping ropes can bring boundless joy to the boys. Next month, we’ll provide of list of other gifts ideas.

Another Success Story

In April, Life4Kids celebrated another major milestone. Mike (shown here) was the first boy in Life4Kids. He now serves as a police officer in Nairobi. He has just received a promotion to a higher rank, a testimony to his discipline, hard work, and unwavering dedication. Mike is a wonderful role model for the little boys.

Heartfelt Thanks from Jane

Jane Wasike, CEO of Life4Kids in Kenya, sends this message:

“The journeys of our big boys continue to inspire us every day. Seeing them grow, succeed, and excel in life fills our hearts with joy and renews our commitment to this mission with greater zeal, hope, and determination. Their stories are true testaments to what love, care, and opportunity can do. But none of this would have been possible without you – our incredible sponsors, faithful partners, and devoted staff. We celebrate every achievement, every milestone, and every transformed life with immense gratitude to you for your support, prayers, hard work, and generosity. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you for standing with us, for believing in these children, and for walking the journey of transformation alongside us. Together, we are changing lives, one child at a time.”
