

Update From Kenya

We're pleased to update you...

Vacation:

The boys and staff had a wonderful long holiday with the boys. The boys were out of school for almost two months. They had a great Christmas.

Fun Outing:

Thanks to donations from Life4Kids in both Canada and Norway, the New Year was crowned by a special fun day at a park followed by a party with cake.

The big boys joined the party too.

Academics:

The boys started a new academic calendar on Monday, January 23. Among the highlights:

- All boys are moving to the next level in their respective classes.
- Four boys did their final exams at the primary level in December. All scored above average marks that will enable them to join high school. Jane and her staff deserve special credit for the work they did with boys with learning challenges, including arranging tutors.
- Another of the big boys has now completed his high school education.

We thought you might enjoy seeing some of the boys in their new school uniforms.

Two of our boys (shown below) achieved scholarships for one year in the school shown below. The school will pay all school fees so Life4Kids only needs to pay for school uniforms, extras and transportation.

Life in Kenya

Everything has become very expensive, especially food and daily commodities. The Kenyan Shilling is weakening every day. The drought is causing families, children, women and animals to struggle and even perish.

Closing Message from our CEO Jane

"Happy New Year 2023. I take this opportunity to thank you for being a special part of the Life4Kids family. Your love is a gift that can be seen on the faces of the boys. They now wear smiles knowing they have a bright future full of support and great love. 2022 was amazing because of your love and support. We pray that 2023 will be incredible! THANK YOU for not giving up on these precious young souls. We love you!"
